

1.9) The migration of the population

immigration of population from neighboring countries into Thailand. Most of the migration in Thailand is illegal immigration resulting in deportation and deportation problems. As a result, large numbers of migrants remain in Thailand and international political conflicts arise, especially the group conflict the government of the country of origin Important causes of migration consist of political factors such as situations in neighboring countries. and economic aspects, including the level of economic development and the quality of life of the people In Thailand and neighboring countries are different. and the demand for more foreign labor force

1.10) Changing Context Leading to New Threats

current security threats has a wide scope are connected, complex and affect people more directly New security threats consist of threats arising from changes linked to global contexts in various dimensions. both economic dimensions society and politics as well as the development of technology the utilization of the interconnected cyberspace. Infrastructure transportation financial and other economic systems, including more changes of the world's climate and the result of the country's development in the past. Importantly, the Covid 19 epidemic, the period in Thailand since January 13, 2020, is a disease that has spread throughout the world (Pandemic).